

TECHNOLOGICAL, NORMATIVE AND REGULATORY INTELLIGENCE

Experts assist you in decision making

Your expectations

In order to maintain the best competitive level for your products or before launching a new design approach, you need to:

- have a general look of the literature (papers, patents or standards...) in particular fields
- know the state of the art about a particular technology
- follow the evolution of a particular technology, a research field or a company

Our solutions

Cetim proposes

- bibliographical research, search for patents, standards and regulations in international databases
- Internet research, automatic website watching
- assessment interview for validation
- industrial manufacturers survey
- attendance at various events (shows, conferences...)
- information analysis and summary
- information access through a collaborative platform

Your benefits

As an independent technical center, Cetim has set up a team dedicated to technological intelligence which benefits from skills in every engineering field.

You benefit from:

- exhaustive information at the international level
- updated information
- expert-validated information
- summarized information to help you make strategic or organizational choices